Tenure Clock Considerations

PROBATIONARY PERIOD

The University of Oregon has established a six-year pre-tenure (probationary) period, with one major ("midterm") review required prior to the actual review for tenure. Successful midterm review results in a contract that establishes the date by which a final tenure decision is required. For faculty hired without credit for prior service, the midterm review generally occurs during the third year of employment, and the final tenure decision is required by the conclusion of the sixth year of employment.

Read more about third-year/midterm review (/evaluation-ttp#mid-term-review).

Read more about promotion and tenure (/promotion-tenure).

CREDIT FOR PRIOR SERVICE

When credit for prior service is agreed upon, the terms of hire will state the number of years of credit granted, the earliest date for tenure consideration, and the required date for tenure consideration. Scholarship, research, creative activity,
Tenure Clock Considerations | Academic Affairs

Hello gdrew (/user) Log out (/user/logout)

Dashboard (/admin/dashboard) Content (/admin/content) Structure (/admin/structure) Configuration (/admin/config) Help (/admin/help)

Main Menu (/admin/structure/menu/manage/main-menu) Add content (/node/add)

Find content (/admin/content) Manage files (/admin/content/file)

Tenure Clock Considerations

To delay the review for the last six years of full-time appointment at the University of Oregon, teaching, scholarship, research, and creative activity completed prior to arrival at the university will be of secondary consideration during the promotion and tenure process. Should the faculty member choose to use some, but not all of the credit for prior service, the focus of the review of teaching, scholarship, research, and creative activity will adjust appropriately so that, for example, four years of full-time appointment at the university would mean that at most two years of prior service will receive full consideration.

EARLY TENURE

A tenure review may occur prior to the sixth year of employment in particularly meritorious cases as determined by the provost or designee in consultation with the appropriate dean, department or unit head, and faculty member.

EXCEPTIONS TO THE PROBATIONARY PERIOD ("STOPPING THE CLOCK")

The tenure review clock may be stopped, at the faculty member's discretion, for one year upon pregnancy or the birth or adoption of a child. Faculty members are advised to request stopping the tenure review clock as soon as possible.

The tenure review clock may also be stopped, at the faculty member's discretion for up to two years for approved leaves of absence without pay or in other extraordinary circumstances as approved by the provost or designee. In these cases, the faculty member must elect whether to opt to stop the tenure review clock at the start of the leave of absence, or the tenure review clock will not be stopped. The
TIMELY NOTICE

Successful candidates are granted tenure and assume their new classification and rank at the start of the next academic year, or sooner at the discretion of the provost. Candidates who are denied tenure will receive a notice of appointment which expires at the end of the academic or fiscal year following the one in which the application for tenure was submitted.

If the faculty member fails to submit materials required for a tenure review in a timely manner, the department or unit head will notify the faculty member of the missed deadline by university email and the primary phone on record in the Banner system. If the faculty member does not respond within 14 days, tenure may be denied. If the faculty member responds within 14 days, the department or unit head will establish a new deadline for submission of all materials. The new deadline must allow the University adequate time to complete the tenure review process by June 15th. If the faculty member misses the new deadline, tenure will be denied.

PROMOTION TO FULL PROFESSOR

Consistent with practice at many universities, the University of Oregon views as "timely" a review of a tenured associate professor for promotion to full professor during the sixth year post-tenure. Because this is not a required review, however, a tenured associate professor, in consultation with his/her does not lead to a tenable renewable contract, but rather continuation as a tenured associate professor.

EARLY PROMOTION TO FULL PROFESSOR

As in the case of consideration for tenure, review for promotion to full professor may occur prior to the sixth year of service as a tenured associate professor in particularly meritorious cases as determined by the Provost or designee in consultation with the appropriate dean, department or unit head, and faculty member.